LETTER FROM "NORTHWEST"

COOS CITY, Nov 20, 1874

Since last Sunday there has been a great change in the weather for the better Unusual keen frosts at night, and bright and cheerful sunshine has prevailed during the day This state of the weather was most favorable for the work at the new coal mines and on the isthmus transit railroad But contrary to expectations a steady heavy rain set in early this morning retarding these important improvements considerably and making travel on the Coos Bay wagon road all but impassable Should the reasonable expectations of the responsible managers of the coal mines now being opened be realized there will be 700 men employed by the month of January on the coal mines of Coos Bay Coal Mine Slough and the Isthmus and Beaver Sloughs This is not taking into consideration other mines that are talked of and expensive improvements contemplated There is little doubt but the industries in actual operation and in contemplation embraced between the entrance to the bay and extending to Coquille river will in the course of two or three years, be a matter of astonishment and admiration to all who are interested in the development of the material resources of the State Under these favorable prospects it is desirable that the industrial class should know

WHO SHOULD COME TO COOS BAY

There will be a steady demand for good coal miners all the time the best time to come, to make sure of employment, is early in the fall There is a similar want for strong active sober, and reliable young men, fit for drivers and auxiliary hands inside and outside the mines Indolent, incompetent drinking men are of no account and should not come here there are quite enough of loafers on the bay already Experienced miners of good habits can make an average of $4 a day drivers, weighers and other responsible men get $3 good auxiliary hands for all work get $40 a month and board

Men adapted for lumbering logging and all kinds of work connected with saw and planing mills are in constant demand Early in spring is the most favorable time for men to arrive who are adapted for any of the departments of this kind of work particularly for logging Competent loggers can make $4 a day during the spring summer and fall months good choppers and other auxiliary hands get $40 to $60 a month and board first-class teamsters get from $75 to $100 a month and board The great drawback to many of this class of men is their love of whisky and the card table by which hard earned money is rapidly spent. Competent, industrious men, of good habits could soon make money at any of the employments referred to It is gratifying to state that there are some men at the mines, mills and logging camps who are enjoying comfortable homes and have saved considerable sums of money. We could wish that such a state of things was the rule and not the exception There will be a considerable demand for good carpenters from next April to November The profitable industries of the bay and its tributaries are not confined to lumbering and coal mining On

COOS RIVER

There are a number of settlers, distinguished for their industry, prosperity and comfortable homes. Their farms consist principally of rich bottom lands of great productiveness, on which they raise fine cattle good butter, choice vegetables and the best of fruit, consisting of apples pears plums and cherries for the markets on the bay The larger orchardmen ship apples extensively to the San Francisco market to advantage The river is navigable for twenty miles, and the north and south forks for five miles each Two steam boats run up twice a week each with passengers and freight Some idea may be formed of the richness of the bottom lands on this river, the improvements made and the fine houses built, from the fact that farms sell from $25 to $100 per acre All the settlers are very successful except a few in the past who have preferred hunting and idling to constant industry and steady application to improving their places. Such men have to give place to those who know their business and attend to it The hand of the diligent makes rich, and so it ever will be

THE COQUILLE VALLEY

Is constantly attracting emigration and settlers The steamers Fairport and Empire have brought an average of 25 persons each trip during the last seven months from San Francisco, who have settled in this valley During the months of July August September and October there has been a constant stream of families coming overland from the same place and the different counties bordering on the two States who have settled in the valley and on the numerous forks of the main river The Coquille river is navigable for 45 miles and is one of the most beautiful rivers in Oregon for its size The bottom lands, comprising the principal part of the valley are not surpassed for richness and productiveness Its rich agricultural lands extensive coal beds, immense quantities of white cedar and other valuable timber, and its healthy climate will make this valley one of the most valuable and attractive in the State for its limited size The population has doubled in two years The price of land during the same time has advanced from $5 to $10 an acre The advance will be equally great during the coming two years, if Mr Wm Utter extends his railroad to the Coquille river during the coming summer thereby connecting the waters of that river with Coos Bay, giving ample facilities for rapid travel and cheap freights and stimulating improvements cultivation and new enterprises Such are some of the signs of the times for Coos Bay, its tributaries and Coquille valley

THE SHIP WESTERN SHORE

That has been waiting for a smooth bar for the last ten days was taken to sea on Monday by the tugboat Beale The day was remarkably fine and the bar was all that could be desired The tug took her some miles outside the bar when the ship with sails set and a favorable breeze went out to sea in fine style What gives particular interest to the Western Shore is the fact that she is the first and largest full rigged ship ever built on this coast Messrs A M Simpson & Brother of North Bend are entitled to the gratitude of the people of Oregon, and of Coos Bay in particular for the industries they have developed and encouraged and the enterprises they have undertaken in lumbering and ship building The Western Shore will carry 1 800 tons freight and will most likely load with wheat at San Francisco for Liverpool This ship makes the sixteenth vessel that the Messrs Simpson & Brother have built at North Bend in fifteen years

NORTHWEST

THE CENTER OF POPULATION—Gen Walker's essay on the center of population brings into new prominence the steadiness with which this center clings to the thirty ninth parallel along which are situated Baltimore Washington and Cincinnati At no time from 1790 to 1870 has the center of population departed north or south of this line more than 20 miles. It has marched westward 390 miles in that period the greatest leap being from 1850 to 1860 (81 miles) when the transfer of a small population to the Pacific coast gave a sudden elongation to the Western arm of the lever and necessitated the moving of the fulcrum quite a distance It is now 48 miles east of Cincinnati and in 1880 will nearly coincide with that city

FAST HORSES IN LIMBO—Baltimore Nov 11—Hugh Gaffney the steeple chase rider who was expelled from the Jerome Park course for his manner of riding Resolute Saturday Oct 31 has commenced suit in the Baltimore County Circuit Court against Joseph Donohue for wages and services Donohue being a non resident of the State of Maryland his horses Dublin Danboo Culpepper Lizzie Lucas and George West were yesterday attached by the Sheriff of Baltimore county until the suit is decided

A CHARACTERISTIC SPEECH OF GEORGE IV

The Greville Memoirs reports the following extraordinary post prandial speech of George IV

The Duchess sat on one side of the King and the Princess Victoria opposite After dinner, by the Queen's desire His Majesty's health was given As soon as it was drunk he made a very long speech in the course of which he poured forth the following extraordinary and foudroyante tirade — I trust in God that my life may be spared for nine months longer, after which period in the event of my death no regency would take place I should then have the satisfaction of leaving the royal authority to the personal exercise of that young lady (pointing to the Princess) the heiress presumptive of the Crown and not in the hands of a person now near me, who is surrounded by evil advisers and who is herself incompetent to act with propriety in the station in which she would be placed I have no hesitation in saying that I have been insulted —grossly and continually insulted—by that person, but I am determined to endure no longer a course of behavior so disrespectful to me Among many other things I have particularly to complain of the manner in which that young lady has been kept away from my Court She has been repeatedly kept from my drawing rooms, at which she ought always to have been present but I am fully resolved that this shall not happen again I would have her know that I am King and I am determined to make my authority respected and for the future I shall insist and command that the Princess do upon all occasions appear at my Court as it is her duty to do He terminated his speech by an allusion to the Princess and her future reign in a tone of paternal interest and affection which was excellent in its way This awful philippic (with a great deal more which I forget) was uttered with a loud voice and excited manner The Queen looked in deep distress the Princess burst into tears and the whole company were aghast The Duchess of Kent said not a word Immediately after they rose and retired and a terrible scene ensued The Duchess announced her immediate departure and ordered her carriage, but a sort of reconciliation was patched up and she was prevailed upon to stay until the next day The following morning when the King saw Adolphus he asked him what people said to his speech He replied that they thought the Duchess of Kent merited his rebuke but that it ought not to have been given there that he ought to have sent for her into his closet and have said all that he felt and thought there but not at table before a hundred people He replied that he did not care where he said it or before whom that 'By God he had been insulted by her in a measure that passed all endurance, and he would not stand it any longer

CINCINNATUS H MILLER ON THE MODOCS.

[From the N Y Tribune Nov 6

UNWRITTEN HISTORY LIFE AMONGST THE MODOCS By JOAQUIN MILLER 8vo pp 441 American Publishing Co

Mr Miller's description of life among the miners of California and the red men of Shasta are marked by a curious blending of commonplace reflection and Ossianic grandiloquence He is nothing if not poetical and when he leaves the field of romance, can be as dry and prosy as the dullest college lecturer The main purpose of his work—apart from the indulgence of his intense egotism—is the vindication of the Modoc Indians Under the touches of his free pencil, they are clothed in the most radiant colors His imagination pictures them as a race of prophets and poets though without the gift of expression a silent and mysterious people that is moving noiselessly from the face of the earth The ideal Indian according to Mr Miller, is a dreamer and a Druid He acquires the character of a savage under sudden bursts of passion and then his whole demeanor is marked by ferocity and blood He combines in his own person the nature of the worst and best of men the tamest and the fiercest of human beings If this description is contrary to the popular impression it is because Mr Miller is the only person acquainted with the subject. He has seen the Indian as he was and as he is He knows these people their rights and their wrongs and has known them for nearly twenty years No peer, in fact, can be found to the Indian, except among the original California miners They were great men giants even in their day the grandest body of men that have ever been gathered together since the siege of Troy The author admits that sometimes they were a little rough those wild bearded hairy breasted individuals No doubt they did a good deal of promiscuous killing among each other but then they did it in such a manly sort of way Mr Miller rejoices to find himself once more among his beloved mountains He parts from civilization without a sigh He can endure storms and earthquakes better than this crush and crowding of men where souls eat souls, and men kill each other to get their places He has now ample room and verge enough No man wants his place there is no rivalry no jealousy. No monster he proclaims 'will eat me up while I sleep no man will stab me in the back when I stoop to drink from the spring We tender Mr Miller our cordial congratulations with the hope that in his Paradise regained he will not feel himself bound to write another book

A LITERARY HOAX.—A rich hoax was successfully perpetrated at the dinner of the Boston Press Club on Saturday evening Several letters were read, purporting to come from distinguished individuals among them one from Brett Harte, with two [illegible] including a characteristic poem. [illegible] which the author of the Heathen Chinee would we think be almost willing to claim as indited if not by himself certainly by a 'double No assertion was made at the table that the epistle or the verses came from Bret Harte with one [illegible] but all present save the few in the secret jumped at the fallacious conclusion and so have the papers since The lines were in fact written over the initials 'B H by J Cheever Goodwin, and all will agree that he was far more than a parodist and excuse the jocose cheat very willingly —Boston Transcript Nov 10

RICH AND POOR CONGRESSMEN—The Boston Traveller goes into personal matters thus: Before the election the aggregate wealth of the Massachusetts nominees for Congress who it was thought would be elected was estimated at some $40 000 000 The result changes this estimate materially In fact, Massachusetts has seldom sent a delegation to Congress so poor in this world's goods Chapin, of Springfield is the millionaire par excellence next comes Frost of the Fourth and then Pierce of the Third and Hoar of the Ninth and Warren of the Eighth Messrs Seelye Buffington Thompson Tarbox and Banks mainly dependent upon their professions The delegation in the present Congress was somewhat more noted for its wealth Hooper Williams Crocket Pierce and Butler are all men of wealth

It is not necessary to go back to Marcus Morton for 'the last Democratic Governor of Massachusetts George S Boutwell was the Democratic Governor of that State in 1851 and 1852 and was a Franklin Pierce Administration Democrat, albeit he had been elected by a coalition with Free-Soilers

The close votes in recent elections will make a curious record when the record is made up The closest district appears to be the Fifth New Jersey, giving Cutler 4 majority over Phelps The next closest is the Second Illinois giving Harrison 7 over Ward The Erie (Pa) District elects Egbert by 11 over Curtis These are official counts There are several other districts still waiting for the official

The whole vote of Massachusetts not official, but as collected by the associated newspapers is Gaston 95 901 Talbot 89,243 Andrews (Labor Reform) 100 Gaston's plurality over Talbot is 6 658 and his majority 6 558 The whole vote is only 7 400 less than the Presidential vote of 1872, which is of itself a remarkable circumstance in this State. The purpose of nominating Judge Andrews does not appear unless it was because holding conventions is a pleasant amusement —Worcester Gazette

As the Democratic Speakership of the next Congress, to assemble a year hence is already a subject of speculative inquiry a list of candidates named, and a classification of the expected Democratic vote, by sections is herewith submitted East of the Alleghanies and north of the Potomac 56 votes,—Banks, of Massachusetts Wood of New York Randall, of Pennsylvania. West of the Alleghanies and north of the Ohio 56 votes,—Morrison of Illinois Kerr of Indiana Wells, of Missouri, The South with 70 votes will decide between these, or furnish a new man It may be remarked in passing that the three Eastern men are salary grabbers the three Western men are not salary grabbers

THE EFFECTS OF A BOUQUET

A good story is being told at the expense of Billy Manning, a negro minstrel well known in this country. For some time Manning has been 'end man with Kelly & Leon's Minstrels, while Luke Schoolcraft officiated in a like capacity at the other end The other evening Clara Louise Kellogg, of the English Opera Troupe, occupied a private box and was an enthusiastic auditor of the entertainment. To add to her pleasure the management placed a large basket of beautiful flowers on a pedestal in front of her box Looking [illegible] from the auditorium it appeared to be directly in front of Luke Schoolcraft Early in the evening the wife of Billy Manning [illegible] who once was Mollie Williams an Irish actress of some little note entered the box and took her seat in the dress circle Hardly had she seated herself, however, when she discovered the basket of flowers. Without making inquiry into the matter she at once made up her mind that some admirer of Luke Schoolcraft had sent him a handsome bouquet Her Irish blood was up, and she determined Billy should have a larger and better one She rushed from the place ran across the street to the Sherman House, purchased two large baskets of flowers and returned with them to the theater When the head usher handed the floral offering to Manning the good-natured audience burst into applause, whereupon the comedian stood up and thanked some unknown friend for the beautiful gift He said he had no idea where they came from, but, judging from the excited appearance of one person in the audience he felt he would find out the next day when the bill came around —Inter Ocean

NEW YORK Nov 14—Father Gerdeman, the absconding priest publishes a card in the Sun stating that he has left the Catholic Church rejecting all its [illegible] tenets that he was lawfully married on the 4th instant to Miss Wittich by a Reformed minister of Jersey City that the money used by him in speculations was his own. He adds The money I took along with me is not quite reach $3 000 I for my part look upon this sum as rather a small reward for more than [illegible] years of labor besides [illegible] of which [illegible] were actually perquisites etc One thousand dollars of it my sister can have at any time for all her hard work for over ten years, and she has never taken nor would take any remuneration in money He repeats what he wrote to Bishop Wood, that he will send all his savings during his life toward paying off the debt of the church—not as a debt he owes to justice, but as a penalty for his folly He announces that himself and wife will sail for Europe this afternoon

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 26, 1874.

SAILOR BOARDING-HOUSE OUTRAGES.

For some months past, British sea captains have made frequent complaint of certain keepers of sailor boarding-houses who make a business of decoying seamen from their vessels, thereby compelling the shipment of other seamen (usually from vessels which have suffered similarly) at double the customary wages. We are informed by some who have thus suffered, that it is the custom of these parties to board ships on their arrival in port and by the promise of higher wages, or other inducement, to entice the sailors into their low dens, where they are secreted until search for them has been abandoned. As soon as it can be done with safety, they are reshipped on some other vessel. Frequently the unsuspecting victims are plied with vile liquors until they are stupid, and in this condition they are induced to sign articles. A few of these boarding-house keepers thus hold and exercise a virtual monopoly of the shipping business. They compel captains whose crews have deserted and who are in a hurry to get to sea, to pay exorbitant advances on the usual rates. This increased wages goes into the pocket of the boarding-house keeper. And if (as is often the case) the sailor receives an advance of one or two months' wages the unscrupulous boarding-house keeper gets hold of it by charging up exorbitant bills for board, lodging, whisky or outfit, and finally closes the swindle by putting the unfortunate wretch aboard his ship, dead drunk and penniless.

We have good reason to believe that such things have been and now are of frequent occurrence. As a consequence, ship expenses are high and ship-masters become disgusted with this port; since for every man they are compelled to ship at wages above the usual rates there must be a corresponding advance of freight rates. We are informed that this increase amounts, on the average, to two shillings per ton on small vessels—an item that must be taxed on the party purchasing the charter. We are gratified to know that steps have been taken to remedy the evil. Determined to stand the imposition no longer, some of the masters of ships now in port have united and made complaint to the British Vice Consul. United States District Attorney Mallory was yesterday consulted. We understand he has promised to cause the apprehension of and to bring to trial all such deserters. Accordingly, warrants have been issued for the arrest of several of the crew of the Dunsinane and James Wishart. Of course the deserting sailors should be punished. But the laws of the United States recognize and provide penalties for the crime of instigating desertion, and if the sailor boarding-house keepers, [illegible] are at the bottom of most of the difficulties between ship-masters and their crews, go unwhipped of justice the work of extirpating this evil will be only half done. Such practices tend to bring our port into bad repute. We hope District Attorney Mallory will push the prosecutions.

A MINIATURE TIDAL WAVE.

Perhaps the political managers [illegible] where more surprised in the November elections than in the 10th Congressional district of Massachusetts, where Professor Seelye, of Amherst College, ran as independent candidate and defeated both his competitors. Or, as the Springfield Republican has it: "After that exceptionally successful surprise party, down in Essex, and these hardly less [illegible] goings on in Hampden and Berkshire [Dawes' district], perhaps the most notable and suggestive of the single results is the election of Prof. Seelye."

This result was accomplished in a remarkably quiet way. Prof. Seelye was nominated at a kind of impromptu meeting of the citizens of Greenfield. He was never written or spoken to on the subject until the day after his election, when the following note was addressed to him:

NORTHAMPTON, Nov 4, 1874.

PROF. JULIUS H. SEELYE—Dear Sir: At a meeting of [illegible] of the 10th Congressional District at Greenfield, September 8, 1874, you were unanimously nominated as a candidate for the next Congress, and the undersigned, as Chairman and Secretary of the Committee then appointed to take charge of the canvass, have the agreeable duty of announcing the nomination to you and begging your acceptance of it. Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

L. MACTBY, Ch'm.
WM B. HALE, Secretary.

P. S.—We find, this morning, that the people, in uncourteous haste, have rushed in and elected you before we have advised you of your nomination.

The total cost to Prof. Seelye of this unique campaign is estimated at a three-cent postage stamp. It was a very irregular affair, and the [illegible] of contest a Bourbon House of Representatives may conclude that it was altogether too cheap. Prof. Seelye is a Doctor of Divinity, and the only clergyman in the House. He is a man of great ability and a political economist of some note.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

Black diamonds, both of them, and it occurred in this wise: Joseph H. Rainey, a colored Congressman and candidate for re-election, sent to Washington for his bosom friend, one talented Mr. Lee, imploring him to come over into Moses' Macedonia and help him. Lee could not resist an appeal in the sacred name of friendship, and so, after preparing himself for the canvass, he went down to the assistance of his beleagured brother in South Carolina. But there was another thing Lee couldn't resist. After looking all over the field and observing that it was ripe for an anti-Rainey harvest, he announced himself as an independent candidate against Rainey, canvassed the district and was elected by Democratic votes. Of course it was all very unkind in Lee and quite out of the usual run of politics; but then it is not every day that an old slave is sent to Congress by his masters on a square Democratic platform.

The Cincinnati Enquirer (Dem.) speaks of the New York World (Dem.) as a "[illegible] and unscrupulous organ," and declares that its opinions are "about as important as one of Mrs. Harris' confidential communications to Sairey Gamp." Behold what a lovely thing is the happy family of Bourbons!

AN ORGAN IN DISTRESS.

It is a mournful fact that some of the most exemplary brethren in the Republican party do not dwell together in unity. This is to be regretted, because there is nothing so sweet as the [illegible] peace, the [illegible] tranquility of a well-bred family of moderate dimensions. In union there is strength. Also profit.

A few days ago the Republic undertook to give utterance to President Grant's views on the currency question. It intimated that he had changed his opinion on the advisability of an early resumption of specie payments, and affirmed [illegible] that he vetoed the Inflation Bill because he thought a veto would be popular, but now had reason to regret that he was overpersuaded by New York and that he disregarded Western opinion. The article made some stir in financial circles in New York and among politicians at Washington. It was brought to Grant's attention and he at once authorized a flat denial of the statement, 'feeling that the occasion warranted him in a departure from his usual reticence." His friends say the President has not changed his views on inflation; that while it is true, he had at one time last summer about concluded to sign the Currency Bill, it was "because he believed it would operate as a measure of contraction." Considering the rare devotion to the President which has hitherto characterized the editorial conduct of the Republic, this rebuke is rather crushing. Perhaps in the hour of its humiliation it may find some consolation in the fact that above all of its contemporaries it has the proud distinction of being the only newspaper that could make the President "depart from his usual reticence." The blight of Executive disapproval has fallen early on the tender bud of journalism. It will now be in order for the Republic to "take the more general line of journalistic duty that belongs to a complete newspaper."

FOR WASHINGTON CITY.

To-morrow morning Col. W. W. Chapman starts for Washington, via Eastern Oregon. He goes to continue the work, so well begun last year, of securing the passage through Congress of legislation in the interests of the Portland, Dalles & Salt Lake R. R. Co. No man on this Northwest coast has labored for a through railroad with more indefatigable energy and industry than has been shown by Col. Chapman in the prosecution of this enterprise. The task he has undertaken is an arduous one. He deserves and we hope he will receive the hearty sympathy and co-operation of his fellow citizens. We wish him a pleasant journey and success in his undertaking.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Governor Grover has joined with the President of the United States in recommending that to-day be recognized by the people of Oregon as a day of thanksgiving. The custom of setting apart one day in the year for acknowledging the goodness and mercy of God is an old and honorable one. We hope it will be generally observed by this people who have abundant cause to render thanks for blessings innumerable of store and field.

The St. Paul Press rejoices that Minnesota was faithful among the faithless found. Hear it:

> The great Republican constellation of the new Northwest—Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, shines in serene and undiminished splendor in the Western Heavens.

That is exceedingly astronomical. It enables one to understand that the recent defeats of the Republican party are only a temporary obscuration of the "constellation," caused by the transit of Democracy. But, when the Press rings in the lighthouse business—"Michigan stands like a beacon light amid the surrounding darkness"—and a series of signal service observations—"Florida and South Carolina are the only Southern States which have defied the storm"—we confess to getting a little confused.

They are finding a Charley Ross every other day, now. He was caught in Baltimore a week ago, but unfortunately he lost his personal identity before the Philadelphia detectives reached him. We are now assured by the St. Catherines (Ont.) Times that the long-lost boy had been traced to that town. "A woman, who gave her name as Hazard, arrived here with her daughter about four months ago, having charge of the stolen child," we are told. "The woman is under arrest, and the police and several American detectives are in search of the daughter, who has the child with her." Does any idiot believe there ever was a boy by the name of Charley Ross?

Our readers will remember the election affray between Senator O'Brien and Coroner Croker, in New York city, on the morning of Nov. 3d, when John McKenna, one of the O'Brien party, was shot and killed by Croker for a word uttered by his chief. Well, a New York jury has decided that the murdered man "came to his death from a pistol shot wound at the hands of some person unknown." Croker and his gang have been released from bail, and—well, that poor devil, McKenna, was out of luck. That's all. Pleasant community, New York, trial by jury, and all that sort of thing.

In Norway, near Bergen, live a couple who have been married nearly 90 years. The husband thinks he is 106 years old. He complains that his son is not so "industrious as he (the old gentleman) has been. He is now confined to his bed, but is sprightly in conversation and a great talker. He delights to tell of the times when he served in the army and fought the Swedes. The wife is exceedingly stupid.

Boss Shepherd was a witness in the safe burglary trial at Washington. He was introduced to prove an alibi for Harrington, Assistant District Attorney and one of the conspirators. He gave in his testimony with a very cheerful regard for details. Harrington was with him at lunch on a certain day, he says. They took two cocktails at the beginning of the feast and "wound up with two bottles of champagne."

The San Francisco Examiner says Hon. John R. Kittrell, while in that city a week ago, received dispatches from Nevada assuring him of his election as Attorney General by over 100, majority. Kittrell is said to be an excellent lawyer, and he has long had the reputation of being one of the most eloquent and effective stump speakers on this coast.

General Sherman says of the Black Hills, that "some gold was found" by the expedition, but there is no reliable information as to its abundance.

UTAH CANNON.

CHARGES BROUGHT AGAINST HIM IN THE CONTEST FOR DELEGATE IN CONGRESS.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 13.—In [illegible] notice of contest for the seat in Congress [illegible] to from this Territory, R. N. Baskin [illegible] George Q. Cannon with [illegible]; that he has violated the act of Congress of 1862 regarding polygamy, and has married [illegible] Young, Martha Zella, Elizabeth Hoagland and [illegible] Jane Young; that he has married one woman since the passage of the act of 1862; that he regards his obedience to his church as superior to his obligations to any law of Congress; that he has not only violated its law in regard to polygamy, but induced others to do the same; that he cannot take the oath required of a Delegate; that the House of Representatives, April 3, 1874, passed a bill to the effect that thereafter no bigamist or polygamist should be eligible to a seat in Congress, and that his constituents voted for him knowing such fact. In reply, Cannon states that at the election he received some 24,000 votes to 4,000 cast for his opponent; that he has been naturalized. He denies that, by being a Mormon or otherwise, he has entered into relations with any woman of such character or in such manner as to subject himself to punishment for any offense under the act of Congress of 1862.

GOV. CARPENTER'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.—As a rule, there is a heap of highfalutin about Thanksgiving proclamations, but none has fallen under our eye longer or less logical than that of His Excellency of Iowa. In the 99th year of the Independance of the United States and in the 28th of the ditto of Iowa, His Gubernatorial Highness proclaims that "It behooves a people whose granaries are full, whose basket and store are overflowing with the good things of earth, whose homes have been preserved from pestilence and plague, whose civil and religious liberty have been neither impaired nor imperilled, whose altars of worship have not been thrown down or despoiled, whose educational privileges—free to all—have been improved and enlarged, whose wealth has increased with unexampled rapidity, whose commercial enterprises have widened and prospered, and to whom peace, plenty and social happiness have been vouchsafed—" to, etc. The exordium is so long that by the time the Governor has reached midway in his proclamation he has quite forgotten that he has described his people in possession of full granaries and overflowing baskets, and asks that contributions "be sent to those northwestern counties of the State whose settlers have been reduced to destitution through the recent incursion by grasshoppers from the western plains."—Chicago Times.

A COURAGEOUS EDITOR.—"G. W." writes to the Chicago Tribune on the death of Daniel H. Haskell, editor of the Boston Transcript:

> "It is only when one knows the difficulties under which Mr. Haskell's public position was achieved that his private character can be fully appreciated. Mr. Haskell performed his editorial duties when nearly blind for three years. And the pluck and fortitude with which he endured the temporary loss of his sight, and still kept on his work with unabated vigor of body and mind, is worthy of all praise. No one in his office missed his controlling spirit; no friend missed his accustomed call; no child the accustomed annual gift. It was a great blessing to him when he subsequently recovered the use of his eyes. But, sick or well, with sight or blind, he did his work, and now, having done more work in his 50 years than most men do in the alloted span of life, he has gone where he 'can see clearly face to face.'"

THE PENNSYLVANIA STRUGGLE IN 1875.—The great political event of the year will be the Gubernatorial canvass in Pennsylvania. Of this, the Philadelphia Enquirer (Republican) says:

> Pennsylvania must next year accept a decisive struggle for political supremacy in the selection of a Governor to serve for four years. If a Republican shall be chosen the prestige of the whole line of Democratic victories of 1874 will be broken, and the nation will be resolved into uncertainty as to the Presidential issue of the year following, but, if the Opposition shall elect the Governor, the result in 1876 will be unmistakably foreshadowed.

[illegible] Battery Armory.—The enterprise [illegible] evinced by the [illegible] of the Portland Light Battery is [illegible] commendable. This organization [illegible] no aid whatever from the State, [illegible] the furnishing of the ordnance and ammunition. Within the last six months the [illegible] of the company have, by their own [illegible], procured a handsome uniform [illegible] for the same out of their own [illegible]. In addition they have erected a very [illegible] Armory on Washington street [illegible] it as well as the limited means [illegible] would admit. Some time [illegible] commenced putting up an addition [illegible] the rear of the present building, [illegible] finished. This addition is [illegible] room. It is not attached in any [illegible] the main building by frame work, so [illegible] if it is desirable in the future to enlarge [illegible] the [illegible] addition can easily [illegible] around and moved out of the way. [illegible] informs us that the [illegible] propose, in a short time, to paper [illegible] of the building and furnish it up [illegible] manner. AMUSEMENTS.

Skating Rink.—This afternoon the Skating Rink will be opened from 2 to 4 o'clock P. M. for the [illegible] accommodation of ladies and children. A capital opportunity will be afforded for enjoying a few hours of exhilarating sport. In the evening the Rink will be open, and a full band in attendance. Next Wednesday evening Mr. Morrice will give a grand Pro[illegible] Concert at the Rink. On that occasion [illegible] Infantry band will be present, and lend additional attraction to the scene by discoursing excellent music. This concert is the first of a series which are to be inaugurated during the season.

Mr. Sawtelle was deservedly complimented on the occasion of his benefit, last evening, by a full house, composed of many of our leading citizens. The entertainment was opened by Mme. Torre's vocal waltz, "La Primavera," sung by Miss Louise Irving, a new personage to theater-goers in Portland. The lady has an excellent voice, not very powerful, but under wonderful control, and her singing was received by the audience with decided manifestations of appreciation. In fact, few singers have ever appeared before the Portland public who excel her in cultivation and control of the voice, or who exhibited so much vocal skill as did Miss Irving in this difficult piece. Being loudly encored, she rendered "The Mocking Bird" song in beautiful style, and was heartily applauded. The four-act play of "Rip Van Winkle" was put on the stage in as faultless a manner as possible under the circumstances and was highly enjoyed by all present. The leading characters, by Mr. Sawtelle, Mrs. Phelps and Mr. Crowell, were ably sustained, and the pathetic and mirthful points in the play faithfully presented. Those who have failed to see Mr. Sawtelle in this play have lost an opportunity of seeing as good acting as has ever been done on a Portland stage. His support is also good, and the lady manager deserves the thanks of the Portland public for furnishing a real first-class place of amusement. To-day, at 2 o'clock, a matinee will be given and the splendid play of "Marble Hearts" presented by particular request. In the evening Mr. Sawtelle will appear, for the last time before a Portland audience, in the great drama of "Arra-na-Pogue."

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Emmet Guard ball last evening at Masonic Hall, proved ere the close of the affair a most enjoyable one to all present. The attendance increased as the evening wore on, and by good management every one was made happy. The music was par excellence, the decorations in good taste, and other matters, briefly stated, were all that could be desired. We have said very little of the party, but that little is so [illegible]pressive that no more need be said.

Ever since Baker and Canby Post, G. A. R., adopted the plan of inviting their many friends to their comfortable hall at convenient intervals through the winter months, the parties have been thoroughly successful. On each occasion the beautiful apartment was completely jammed with devotees of the "art terpsichore." The affair last evening was fully up to the standard in every particular—a large attendance, splendid music, attentive management and no end to enjoyment. The hall was as usual, appropriately decorated with flags, etc., and the surroundings imparted an air of comfort and brilliancy. Those who attend these affairs invariably seek an opportunity to continue the pleasure during the season.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

RELIGIOUS, LOCAL, PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

[From the P. C. Advocate.]

Rev. L. T. Woodward, Presiding Elder of Puget Sound District, was in our office on Tuesday last on his way to Salem. We regret to learn that his health is not at all good.

Mrs. Phoebe Palmer, known throughout the Christian world for her eminent labors with voice and pen in behalf of Christian holiness, died at her residence in New York, Nov. 2d, aged 66 years.

Rev. H. F. Williams informs us that the new Methodist Episcopal Church at Buena Vista is fast approaching completion, and it is expected to be ready for dedication some time during the holidays. It is 32x40 feet, with a 63-foot spire, and will be a very neat and beautiful building. As it is the only church building in the town, of course it will be a prominent feature of this flourishing little place.

No "Hoodlum" Dance.—Everybody is not admitted at Halpruner & Schwendell's select soiree. Come and listen to the music and see for yourself. Notice advertisement.

Try a dinner at Moon's cozy restaurant, corner Second and Stark streets.

A Stuffed Turkey at the Museum. No extra charge.

Pause while you read this! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, or boy, than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

Very many will give the Museum a Thanksgiving benefit to-day.

The great Frenchman, Allaroche, made specialties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings, but JOHN O'NIEL & CO. make specialties of selling the finest clothing, underwear, cravats, ties and hats at unparalleled low prices. For a winter suit theirs are of the best, so get yourself dressed and be at rest. This is not irony or sarcasm, but stubborn fact, as everybody will find out who goes to their store. Naked truth is good, but people can't go about in that way and must have clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season.

Dr. Steele's Medical Wonder has stood the test of time as the cure for rheumatic and other pains, as well as colds, coughs, cramps, &c. Taken with Wonder Pills for liver complaints, kidney disorders and impure blood. For sale everywhere.

Gen. Butler in a Newspaper Controversy.—There is still a little commotion in the "Essex District" in Massachusetts. Gen. Butler cannot forgive the Salem Gazette for having contributed largely to his merited downfall; and, smarting under the palpable evidence of his indifference to truth furnished by that lively sheet, he has opened a campaign against its editors. The charge which he made, it will be remembered, was that the editors were influenced in their opposition to Butler by the fact that that great man would not lend his influence to procure one of them a Postoffice. Butler has written another fiery letter to the Gazette, threatening to prove this assertion; but that paper still has in its columns the announcement that if B. F. Butler will produce any application for office on behalf of the editors, signed or authorized by them, they will give him one thousand dollars.—N. Y. Times, Nov. 13th.

A Warning to England.—The following is related of Justice Scott, the bright judicial mind who presides over the destinies of the Justice's Court at Battle Mountain. A short time since an English passenger on one of the trains was fleeced by some three-card monte sharps and went before Scott for the purpose of making a complaint. Before the complaint could be drawn up, however, the monte-men returned the property to the passenger, who, wishing to continue his journey, refused to make a complaint. Scott insisted that he must make the complaint, and when he declined, addressed him as follows: "I'll have you know, sir, that no subject of Great Britain or any of the crowned heads of Europe shall browbeat this Court with impunity. I fine you $50, sir, for contempt of Court!" The Britisher paid the money and went his way, musing on the uncertainties of American justice.—Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.

White-gloved Democrats.—Nothing could amaze a Democrat who knew only the New York of thirty years ago more than reading, in a Democratic "organ" of to-day, that, at a meeting of Democrats to celebrate a Democratic victory, a "white gloved audience, immaculate in full dress," greeted and applauded the similarly costumed speakers.—N. Y. Post.

Fashionable Outfits.—Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS. KOHN, opposite National Bank. There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen, boys and children will be found. At all times the prices have been the lowest known to the market, but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced. Mr. Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear.

JAMES LAIDLAW.

Portland, Nov. 25, 1874.

A Western editor has put into practice a plan which will enable all papers to dispense with the usual fighting member of the staff. One morning he was waited upon by the biggest kind of a fellow, armed with a terrific cudgel, with several and sundry protuberances sticking out all round, marvelously resembling Colt's derringers and bowies, who saluted him with: "Where's the scoundrel, the editor?" Our friend said: "He is not about, but please take a seat and amuse yourself. If with a paper, he will be in in a few minutes," and hurried down stairs, at the foot of which he met another man, still more profane and fierce, who asked the same question in the same language. "Oh," said the retreating editor, "go up stairs; you will find him reading the paper." Accordingly, up he went, like a high-pressure steam engine, letting off steam at every step. Our friend waited a minute, and such a crash—as if all Pandemonium was let loose. What the result was, was never known, as our friend didn't wait.

Aleut Mummies.—Dr. Dall, of the naval expedition northward through Behring Straits, describes some Aleut mummies found on the Island of Four Mountains. Several have been brought away by the Alaska Commercial Company. In a cave twelve mummies in good condition were found, besides rude carvings and weapons. The bodies were simply eviscerated, stuffed with grass, dried hard, and covered with matting and seal skin. They are probably not more than a hundred years old. The body of an old Chief was more carefully wrapped than the others. It had a dress of fur over a wooden armor, such as the Aleuts formerly wore, and were placed in a sitting posture in a basket, covered with water proof skins carefully sewed together. This and the other bodies are supposed to have been at first suspended from the roof of the cave. They will be presented to the San Francisco Scientific Society.

Gov. Dix and the Eel-Pots.—During a recent visit to his home on Long Island, the Governor was told by one of his farm hands of a conversation with one or two of the fishermen. He had asked them how they were going to vote. "Well," one of them answered, "I hardly know. I like Gov. Dix. I think he has been a good Governor, but times are hard; business is dull. We don't average now more than half an eel to a pot, and don't know but there had better be a change."—Albany Journal.

The Most Unfortunate Man.—Guilford, Conn., has an unfortunate man, Mr. W. W. Fowler. He has had his barn burned three times, dislocated his hip, and received other severe bodily injuries; once had his house and barn in New Haven, burned, and when a member of the firm of Fowler & Newton in the latter city, a barrel of flour fell upon him, and came within an ace of killing him. Other towns are to be heard from.

Conspiracy to Murder the Czar.—London, Nov. 12.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Vienna says: "The Zagblat has received intelligence that strange rumors are circulating in St. Petersburg of a socialist conspiracy, in which the conspirators made an unsuccessful attempt to murder the Czar, and that a number of arrests have been made in consequence in Moscow.

"That's where the boys fit for college," said the Professor to Mrs. Partington, pointing to a school-house. "Did they?" said the old lady, with animation. "Then, if they fit for college before they went, they didn't fight afterward." "Yes," said he, smiling, and favoring the conceit; "but the fight was with the head, not with the hands." "Butted, did they?" said the old lady.

A hyp[illegible]ite is a most detestable character—If in morals he may only deceive himself; but when he experiments upon the lives of his fellowmen, and hopes for advantage even to the injury of others, he becomes pestiferous. There are certain abominable dregs thrown together, which are claimed to be curative, a persistence in taking which will entail most unhappy results upon the sufferer. When to this is added hypocrisy, because they are claimed to be "Temperance Drinks," and all for money, the outrage upon morals and humanity is complete. But the old-fashioned, well-tried PLANTATION BITTERS have gone right on doing their work well for all.

Sore Throat.—The first approach of this terrible disease should be well watched, remedies applied, or else it will increase rapidly, and do its deadly work suddenly. A few drops of the MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT applied by friction to the neck, will remove the internal inflammation by external irritation. The disease is rebuked and the patient speedily recovers. Multitudes of lives have been saved by this embrocation.

Ugly persons pretend to despise the "doll baby" beauty (so they invariably call it) of a cheerful, happy belle. If such ever had any beauty, they had long ago separated from it by using vile unguents and compounds, which disfigured their faces, and they pretend to despise the great boon of personal beauty. Don't believe any woman who says she "would not be pretty." It is not natural. The multitudes who use HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM and retain their beauty contradict any such assertion.

Edward the Confessor! The predecessor of William of Normandy, who died in the [illegible] year that his country was subjugated, had been educated in Normandy. Upon his accession to the British throne, he attempted to introduce Norman fashions—he succeeded in all but the curtailment of the people's hair—the Saxons wore long hair and the Normans kept theirs close cropped. The public bore every indignity but this; nor could he or his successor, William, make their subjects destroy their "crown of glory." But there are many men and women too, who neglect their hair, and lose its beauty, when they might retain it by the use of LYON'S KATHAIRON.

A THOUSAND BANKRUPTCIES

Would not c[illegible] a panic in com[illegible] as the withdrawal of HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR from the market, would create among the sick. The reason is obvious. Tens of thousands of both sexes would be bankrupted in health by such an event. The famous specific is effecting such cures in cases of chronic cough and cold, influenza, bronchitis, bleeding from the lungs and apparent consumption, as have never heretofore been accomplished within the memory of man.

JOB FROM HIS ASH HEAP

NINETEENTH CHAPTER OF JOB PARAPHRASED.

O how much longer will you vex my soul?
Your bitter sayings pierce my heart with pain
And your reproaches are unjust as vain
You know me well shame should your tongues bon trol
Indeed my errors are my own concern
The consequence remains with me alone
If I have [illegible] what may remain
You have reviled already as you've shown
To be against me with the poor pretense
Of passing judgment where there's no offense
By your decision I must bear the blame
Of my afflictions [illegible]
In this opinion if you [illegible]
And keep misjudging every rightful claim—
Make me in short [illegible] my good name
Each [illegible] keen [illegible] each in the long list—
Know then that I declare tis God who hath
For some wise end with His resistless might,
Stricken me down to testify His wrath
Brought me to this most miserable plight
And makes me live and suffer in His sight
Behold [illegible] I cry aloud [illegible] of right!
I cry aloud because of dreadful wrong
I pray to Heaven for help I am not heard
No help is granted me. There is no word
To tell the cruel [illegible] and why
My innocence—that [illegible] be borne so long
From further woe reminded should secure

But God sets darkness in my paths and strife—
Fences my way so that I cannot pass
He hath stripped off the glory from my life
Taken the crown from off my head alas
Honors and virtues cease to be of worth
He leaves me nothing but the scanty breath
He [illegible] at my birth
My hope is blighted like the withered tree
My only refuge is the ease of death
He treats me like His [illegible] enemy
I [illegible] in his wrath [illegible] kindled to destroy
He makes my brethren disinclined to me
Estranges my acquaintance who employ
No more the phrases courtesy extends
My kinsfolk fail to treat me with respect
I am forgotten by familiar friends
My servants [illegible] my wants neglect
I am an [illegible] held—
All whom I love disgusted turn aside
Young children to despise me are impelled
By all I am abhorred—by all denied
My wasted flesh and shrunken skin adhere
To aching bones. I live, yet death is near
Pity me [illegible] in at your feet,
For I am [illegible] by God's ban
Have pity O have pity I entreat!
I am a poor distressed forsaken man
Why do you persecute me when God's hand
Has made my torments more than I can bear?
O that my words were heard throughout the land—
Were written in a book and printed there—
Were with an iron pen to stand time's shock
Engraved forever on the lasting rock
So that posterity might grant me grace
Deal justly by me—comprehend my case

I know that my Redeemer liveth
That truth and justice will at last prevail
In His beneficence He giveth
A compensation that can never fail.

I know that my Re[illegible]
He will avenge me and my wrongs redress.
The consolation this hope giveth
[illegible]

In the last days to He will come in power
To judge the earth to punish or forgive,
And though the worms this body shall devour
Yet will I see Him even as I live

JACK RABBITS.

HOW ONE OF THEM SAVED A MINER'S LIFE

[From the San Francisco Golden Era]

While my friend Clyde and myself were out in the hills back of the Golden Gate park last week a jack rabbit came along and stopped to look at us

If I had thought to bring my revolver along, we would have [illegible] for breakfast to morrow " I remarked

Not with my cons[illegible]t," he replied

What reason can you give for not consenting?'

A rabbit saved my life and I h[illegible] not killed one since, and never will kill one [illegible]

How did he manage to save your [illegible]

Three years ago, I was living in [illegible] A smelter had just been built, and it created a demand for silver rock I owned an interest in a lead that had been sunk 30 feet Thinking the [illegible] I concluded to go there and get some ore, and have it [illegible] I did so, and [illegible] the place just in time to take shelter in the mine from a [illegible] went to the bottom, and went to work. I had not [illegible] there more than five minutes when I heard a noise that sounded like a cannon The rock over my head shook and in a moment the shaft behind me caved You can imagine my feelings [illegible] than I can describe them when I found myself buried alive I tremble at this distant day when I think of that moment. The roof of the shaft was rocks and [illegible] did not pack so tight but what the air came through There was nothing that I could do to release myself I knew that if relief did not come from the outside I must perish. No one knew I had gone there A road ran past the mouth of the shaft but it was not traveled much and I was not likely to attract attention by calling nevertheless, I shouted at intervals all day The following morning I commenced calling again, and all day, whenever I thought I heard a sound, I shouted

'When night came again all hopes of being released had abandoned me One thing added great bitterness to my sufferings I owed quite a large amount of money and, should my fate remain unknown my creditors would think I had fled to defraud them, and my name would be stigmatized

I will not dwell on the agonies I endured I am sorry I cannot forget them

The morning of the fourth day of my imprisonment, I heard something crawl into my grave. I lighted my candle and saw a rabbit There was only one aperture large enough to admit him, I closed it to prevent his escape I saw in him food to appease my hunger, and my hand was raised to kill him when a thought occurred to me that prevented the blow from descending. I had two fish lines, their united length would reach to the road I took off my shirt, tore it into strings tied them together and on to the fish line I wore a long gold watch chain. I tied it on to the part of the line [illegible] the [illegible]. I then cut several leaves from my diary wrote on them my condition, and tied them on to that part of the line that would be outside I then tied the end made out of my shirt around Jack's neck and let him out. He soon [illegible] the end of the line and I knew by the way he was pulling that he was making desperate attempts [illegible] the tugging stopped and knowing gnawing to be Jack's chief accomplishment I thought he had cut himself loose About three hours afterward I felt the line pulled then some one called I tried to answer, [illegible] I [illegible] pulled the line to [illegible] I was not dead

All grew still again and I knew the man had gone for assistance Then came the sound of voices, I pulled the line and it brought me food It took all the men who worked in the shaft nine hours to reach me

A very large pine tree that stood near the shaft had been the cause of my misfortune. It had been dead a number of years and the storm had blown it over The terrible blow it struck the ground had caused the cave

Jack had wound the line around a bush and tied himself so short that he was imprisoned outside as securely as I had been inside. He was taken to town put in a large cage and supplied with all the rabbit delicacies the market afforded He however did not thrive and the boys believing that he pined in thought voted to set him free. He was taken back to his old girdling grounds and liberated

He not only saved my life, but became the benefactor of all the rabbits in the neighborhood—the miners refraining from shooting any fearing it might be him "

THE MARRIED MAN'S WOES —A recently made benedict writes as follows, concerning his young wife's habits If there was a bed room a mile long, and her entire wardrobe could be packed in a bandbox still you'd find portions of that wardrobe scattered along the whole mile of dressing room She's a nice thing to look at when put together but this wonderful creature is evolved from a chaos interminable of pins ribbons rags powder thread brushes, combs and laces If there were 1,000 drawers in your room and you ask but for one to be kept sacred and inviolate for your own private use that particular one would be full of hair-pins, ribbons and soiled cuffs Some provision, some protection in this matter should be inserted in the marriage service

ANOTHER DOG STORY —A saloon keeper in Newark has a dog that readily distinguishes the bell of the milkman who daily serves the establishment, and taking the pail in his mouth, starts to meet him jumps on the wagon, has it filled and carefully and speedily returns He is a large St Bernard and even aside from his superior intelligence, is fit to rank as a king among dogs His performance just spoken of never fails to attract a great deal of attention.

Latest Liverpool advices denote a quiet market Pacific coast wheat range from 9s 10d@10s 4d for average, and 10s 4d @10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at 44s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 43s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

There was nothing in the finance market to last out of the usual routine The main features remain about as last reported and there are no indications of material alteration in money matters in the immediate future As regards the demand there can be but little said that is new —that which comes from outside parties being regarded rather with [illegible] than otherwise by the banks, and those who are not regular customers of these institutions are compelled to seek accommodations on the outside market, where the offerings are gradually diminishing, Rates of discount are firm and loans are sought on slightly advanced rates and altogether it is claimed that our local money market is slowly but steadily growing into a closer condition and that a careful management on the part of all will be necessary for some months to come to prevent embarrassment in conducting the legitimate trade of the country When however the movement of the grain crop shall have been accomplished we may look for a restoration of the general equilibrium and smoother sailing [illegible] then traders and capitalists will be compelled to husband their resources and apply their means where it is most needed leaving outside speculations for the future

Facts in Production.

Whenever any kind of farm produce is so plenty that it will not pay a good profit to the producer it is thrown into use, more than the ordinary channels of consumption. It is subject to wasteful uses etc This is now the case with wheat It is so abundant that many farmers are feeding it to their stock in this country and we notice by latest advices from England that the farmers there are feeding the lower grades of wheat to their stock also Wheat has been a more plentiful crop than any other grain all over the world and as a consequence its relative price is much lower than other grains Corn says an exchange from a Western city producing sixty bushels to the acre is worth 80 cents in St. Louis, while winter wheat producing but twenty bushels per acre is sold at 91c to $1 06 It is [illegible] such a condition of affairs that the production of wheat will be lessened and corn increased and that wheat will be wasted and corn saved Consequently before the world is aware of it wheat will be in light supply and much advanced in price, and corn will be abundant and considerably lower

Miscellaneous.

The total receipts of grain by lake at Buffalo for the month of October foot up 681 667 bushels [illegible] 12,870,181 in the same month last year The receipts of flour, however, show an increase of about 20 000 barrels over the receipts of the corresponding month last year The total receipts by lake from the beginning of the season up to Nov 4th amount to 40,884,308 b[illegible] showing a falling off as compared with the receipts last year of 8 000 000 bushels Altogether it has been an unusually dull and unprofitable season for the lake grain trade

Advices from New Orleans announce a freeze and frost in that State on the 3d inst which did considerable damage to the sugar cane In some sections and if the cold snap was general as indeed seems possible the crop of the State will be cut short 15 000 or 20 000 hogsheads We shall doubtless have more specific and extended advices shortly

A St Louis [illegible] that many of the pork packers in Chicago will burst into smithereens and the banks will have to shoulder the loss and says [illegible] cannot be forced down There are packers in Chicago and elsewhere who will take all the hogs they can get at present prices St. Louis packers have this kind of competition to contend with, and they must face the music. St Louis must have what hogs she [illegible] so it is fair to presume that owners of hogs will get good prices once in their lives unless the Chicago banks become frightened and refuse to loan to [illegible] upon so steep a basis of prices.

Shipping Intelligence

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—The market in Liverpool for Oregon wheat has not undergone any permanent change for more than a fortnight and ours being governed more particularly by that this season than ever before we [illegible] Buyers are still buying all fair to choice that offers at $1 35@1 37½ per cental and vessels are securing reasonably quick dispatch though the fact is admitted that [illegible] in this line are [illegible] this week than was expected The latter part of last week a freeze up was feared and parties having ships in the river were anxious to get them out and in some instances [illegible] have allowed a slight advance on current quotable rates but if so it was only for the above reason and not because foreign markets justified it. At present we see no reason to change quotations from $1 35@1 37½ the latter only for [illegible] lots of choice shipping

FLOUR—The continued depression in the wheat market has still further affected the manufacture and most all our State mills are running on full time and have orders ahead This market is well supplied with all brands of Oregon made flour and jobbing quotations are furnished at $4 50@4 75, the latter are extreme for [illegible] brands of extra good outside brands $4 25@4 5[illegible] fine to superfine, $3 50@4 per bbl The demand is quite active and some large orders have been filled during the week now under review Shipments both to San Francisco and to Europe are increasing on the amount exported in the corresponding month last year

OATS—The receipts of the past week have been larger and with the active demand which seems to prevail prices keep up to our last quotations of 37½@41c ℔ bushel for fair to choice lots including sacks

BARLEY—The market is quiet and prices somewhat duller owing to a lessened demand We quote at $1 [illegible] ℔ cental for common brewing and $1 [illegible] for choice

FEED—The market is fairly supplied with bran shorts and middlings quotable at [illegible] 14 ℔ ton for bran $20 for shorts, and $22 50@25 for middlings Chopped feed is more plentiful and quotable at $ 50 [illegible] oil cake $40 ℔ ton

HAY—Dealers are paying $10 ℔ ton for baled timothy, same jobbing at $11@12 50 wild hay is in market in small quantities but finds very dull sale

POTATOES—Receipts have slightly fallen off and prices are a little better for choice varieties which if assorted and sacked, sell at 55@60c ℔ bushel common quotable at 40@45c

ONIONS are but little sought after, and dealers are unwilling to pay over $1@1 25 ℔ 100 lbs jobbing at $1 50 for good lots

APPLES—Supplies large and prices unchanged since our last report ranging from 60@75c ℔ box for choice varieties assorted and packed down to [illegible] @50c for loose.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples are dull and quotable at 5c ℔ lb plums pitless 15c with pits 8c

BACON—Receipts have increased and the market is now fairly supplied For Oregon cured meats offers are weaker at 10@11c ℔ lb for shoulders 14@15c for sides, and 16@18c for hams

LARD—Choice lots in tins are held at 15@16c in kegs 14@15c ℔ lb There is a fair supply of the market

BUTTER—All buyers require samples before making offers and prices depend as usual on the quality, many lots selling at 20@25c ℔ lb in kegs at 1 rolls while the extreme rates are 15@30c the latter only for choice print for table use

CHEESE—Of Oregon make is in the market in fair supply at 17@18c ℔ lb Some importations are still made

EGGS—The receipts continue to be fully equal to the current demand and buyers now quote at 40c ℔ dozen a decline of 10c since last week

POULTRY—The demand which is quite active is liberally supplied with all kinds of poultry game and fish. Chickens sell at $4@3 50 ℔ dozen for full grown and $2 25@2 50 for spring Turkeys, $[illegible] per pair Geese $9@12 per dozen

DRESSED HOGS—In liberal receipt and taken by butchers and packers at 6@6½c ℔ lb

BEEF CATTLE—Some arrivals in excellent condition are noted Offers for choice fat young steers are firm at 4½@5½c ℔ lb on foot common cattle 3@4c
